TRANSFER OF COPYRIGHT AGREEMENT

Copyright to the above-listed unpublished and original article submitted by the above author(s), the abstract forming part thereof, and any subsequent errata (collectively, the "Article") is hereby transferred to the Journal of Management and Science-JMS for the full term thereof throughout the world, subject to the Author Rights (as hereinafter defined) and to acceptance of the Article for publication in a Journal of Management and Science - JMS. This transfer of copyright includes all material to be published as part of the Article (in any medium), including but not limited to tables, figures, graphs, movies, other multimedia files, and all supplemental materials. JMS shall have the right to register copyright to the Article in its name as claimant, whether separately or as part of the journal issue or other medium in which the Article is included.

The author(s), and in the case of a Work Made for Hire, as defined in the INDIAN COPYRIGHT ACT, 1957. The employer named below, shall have the following rights (the "Author Rights"):

- (1) All proprietary rights other than copyright, such as patent rights.
- (2) The nonexclusive right, after publication by JMS, to give permission to third parties to republish print versions of the Article or a translation thereof, or excerpts there from, without obtaining permission from JMS, provided the JMS-prepared version is not used for this purpose, the Article is not republished in another journal, and the third party does not charge a fee. If the JMS version is used, or the third party republishes in a publication or product charging a fee for use, permission from JMS must be obtained.
- (3) The right to use all or part of the Article, including the JMS-prepared version without revision or modification, on the author(s)' web home page or employer's website and to make copies of all or part of the Article, including the JMS-prepared version without revision or modification, for the author(s)' and/or the employer's use for educational or research purposes.
- (4) The right to post and update the Article on free-access e-print servers as long as files prepared and/or formatted by JMS or its vendors are not used for that purpose. Any such posting made or updated after acceptance of the Article for publication shall include a link to the online abstract in the JMS journal or to the entry page of the journal. If the author wishes the JMS-prepared version to be used for an online posting other than on the author(s)' or employer's website, JMS permission is required; if permission is granted, JMS will provide the Article as it was published in the journal, and use will be subject to JMS terms and conditions.
- (5) The right to make, and hold copyright in, works derived from the Article, as long as all of the following conditions are met: (a) at least one author of the derived work is an author of the Article; (b) the derived work includes at least ten (10) percent of new material not covered by JMS's copyright in the Article; and (c) the derived work includes no more than fifty (50) percent of the text (including equations) of the Article. If these conditions are met, copyright in the derived work rests with the authors of that work, and JMS (and its successors and assigns) will make no claim on that copyright. If these conditions are not met, explicit JMS permission must be obtained. Nothing in this Section shall prevent JMS (and its successors and assigns) from exercising its rights in the Article.
- (6) If the Article was prepared under a Indian Government contract, the government shall have the rights under the copyright to the extent required by the contract.

All copies of part or all of the Article made under any of the Author Rights shall include the appropriate bibliographic citation and notice of the JMS copyright.

By signing this Agreement, the author(s), and in the case of a Work Made For Hire, the employer, jointly and severally represent and warrant that the Article is original with the author(s) and does not infringe any copyright or violate any other right of any third parties, and that the Article has not been published elsewhere, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere in any form, except as provided herein. If each author's signature does not appear below, the signing author(s) represent that they sign this Agreement as authorized agents for and on behalf of all authors who have the legal right to transfer copyright and that this Agreement and authorization is made on behalf of the same. The signing author(s) (and, in the case of a Work Made For Hire, the signing employer) also represent and warrant that they have the full power to enter into this Agreement and to make the grants contained herein.
